

History

TAFISA Certified Leadership Courses in Sport for All were developed to train and qualify national Sport for All leaders around the globe. Since its inception in 2007, and with the IOC support since 2010, more than 50 TAFISA International and National CLCs have been successfully hosted by TAFISA members and NOCs all over the world, resulting in an international network of more than 1000 graduates.

Hosting a TAFISA Certified Leadership Course for your country or region will aid capacity development and strengthen your local or regional Sport for All movements. Participants will be exposed to the fundamentals of Sport for All development, as well as the latest international research, programmes and perspective.

Objectives

Aligned with the goals of TAFISA's Mission 2030 "For a Better World Through Sport for All" and within the framework of Mission 2030's 12 key themes, the CLCs have the following objectives:

- To promote Sport for All and physical activity
- To provide a platform for debate, exchange of experience, networking etc.
- To showcase research and development in the global Sport for All and physical activity sector
- To develop and train leaders and managers in the Sport for All sector

Benefits for Participants

- Education & increased qualification
- Knowledge & experience transfer opportunities
- International & national networking
- Opportunity to showcase local/national initiatives
- Development of English and presentation/public speaking skills
- Hardcopies of all lecture content for future reference
- Graduation certificate
- Sports & social programme
- Access to international speakers & lecturers

Certification

Participants in the CLC will receive a Certificate of Completion, signed by both the local host organisation and TAFISA, documenting their successful completion of the course.
